

Charitable Remainder Trusts

Receive Income Today and Help Women Across the Globe in the Future

A charitable remainder trust allows you to provide a steady stream of income for yourself or other beneficiaries for a period of time, while also leaving a charitable gift to Women for Women International.

How it Works

A charitable remainder trust is an irrevocable trust, which means once the trust documents have been finalized, full control of the trust and its assets are handed over to the beneficiary and are no longer in control of the person who established the trust. Contributing through a charitable remainder trust reduces your taxable income and can benefit a charity of your choice.

Simple Steps:

1. You create the charitable remainder trust by transferring assets like cash, stocks, or property into it.
2. The trust pays a percentage of its assets or a fixed amount to the donor or other beneficiaries for a specific term, which can be for life or for a set number of years, up to 20 years).
3. After the trust term ends or the following the life of the donor/beneficiary, the remaining assets go to Women for Women International.
